ABOUT UNIVERSITY OF ALLAHABAD

The University of Allahabad is a central university located in Prayagraj, Uttar Pradesh, India. It was established on September 23, 1887 through an act of parliament and has since achieved the status of being an Institute of National Importance. It stands as one of the oldest modern universities in India after Calcutta, Bombay and Madras Universities. The university boasts a rich legacy of renowned scholars, scientists, writers and artists such as Meghnad Saha, Amarnath Jha, Firaq Gorakhpuri, Kshitindranath Majumdar etc. who have contributed to the institution's thriving academic and cultural endeavors.

ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS

The Statistics wing, under the Department of Mathematics, was started in 1968 with the initiative of Prof. H. C. Khare, then acting Head of the Department of Mathematics. The wing became operational immediately, with the first batch of B.Sc. I and M.Sc. previous students enrolling simultaneously. Soon, Mr. C. C. Pant was appointed in the Wing, and he primarily taught Statistics courses; other courses such as Numerical analysis and Econometrics were taught by faculty members from the Departments of Mathematics and Economics. In 1974, Dr. Samir K. Bhattacharya, Dr. Ram C. Tiwari and Dr. G. S. Pandey were appointed as regular teachers of Statistics and the Statistics wing continued to operate under the leadership of Prof. Bhattacharya. In 1981, Dr. Anoop Chaturvedi joined as a faculty member of the Department, followed by Dr. S. Lalitha in 1986. Mr. Vishnu Kumar Srivastava, Mr. R.N. Verma, Mr. Raj Kumar Srivastava, Dr. Ajit Chaturvedi and Dr. Anup Kumar also served the department for a shorter period. On August 21, 2000, the Department was established as a separate entity from Mathematics, with Dr. G. S. Pandey appointed as the first Head of Department, alongside Dr. Anoop Chaturvedi and Dr. S. Lalitha as faculty members. The Department offers courses for Undergraduate, Postgraduate degrees, and a Doctoral program leading to a Ph.D. degree. Currently, the Department has six faculty members with specialization in different areas of statistics such as Sampling Techniques, Reliability Theory, Bayesian Statistics, Order Statistics, Quality Control, Sequential Analysis, Survival Analysis, Mathematical Demography, Biostatistics and Stochastic Modeling. Furthermore, the Statistics Department provides statistical support to various interdisciplinary branches and has contributed to numerous research projects, including Control Charts for Auto-correlated Observations on Grid, Sustainable Development: A Mathematical Model, joint Big Data project, among others.

ABOUT PRAYAGRAJ

Connectivity: It is well connected with air, train, and road transport from major cities of India.

OBJECTIVES/ RELEVANCE OF THE CONFERENCE

- To bring academicians and researchers together from across the globe on a forum for discussion and dissemination of advance ideas and principles in Probability and Statistics and its application in other disciplines like agriculture, medicine, epidemiology, social sciences, forestry, environment etc.
- To familiarize the researchers of different disciplines to the basics and introduce to them the recent developments in multidisciplinary data science. Mathematical and rigorous foundations of statistical theory needed in these areas will be presented with specific applications. These will be supplemented by exposure to modern computational techniques which are required in this connection for the above areas.
- To promote the interaction and collaboration between academicians/researchers at the international level with the emerging real-life problems
- To familiarize young researchers towards the in-depth knowledge and utility of Applied Statistics.
- To develop competency among researchers of other disciplines in selection of proper experimental designs, sampling methods and other statistical computational techniques.
